Let's Start!

How to better yourself!

Learning Outcome

Describe ways of solving problems and getting things done in written and spoken situations and in work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can react to things going wrong and respond to difficult questions.
- I can talk about things that need to be done.
- I can talk about solving problems.

Ask your partner:

- What things would you like to change about yourself?
- How would you go about making these changes?

Let's Explore!

I spent $300 on tickets to see my favorite band and it was worth it.*

* "Worth it" describes something that is sufficiently good.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Hey Sally. We got five people. Milton had his son come down and I got Cindy to join us as well. They are just over there. Who did you get?
- Sally: I couldn't get anyone V. Sorry.
- Vanessa: Uggh! We have to get someone to play with us.
- Vanessa: Hi. Jose? What are you doing now?
- Jose: Hi, Vanessa. I'm at work.
- Vanessa: Well I need you to come down to the fairgrounds as fast as you can, you are going to throw axes with me.
- Jose: Okay, but I am working now. I mean there is a lot to do here; the dishes need to be washed, the tables need bussing, the floor needs sweeping and my tables need to be served.
- Vanessa: Don't worry about that. I'll get Tanya to cover for you. Now hustle down here. You know where to go? Take a cab. It's on me.
- Jose: Okay. I'm on my way.
- Sally: Vanessa? Have you lost your mind?
- Vanessa: Maybe, Sally. Maybe.
- Sally: Well, finishing last happens. I mean, I had fun. It was very animated and for me it was worth it.
- Vanessa: Thanks Sally. You're a good friend.
- Joan: Well, back to work. I better get the bartender to check the keg.
- Vanessa: Hey Vanessa. How was the axe throwing today?
- Joan: It was ... ok.
- Joan: Yeah. I was surprised Peter didn't go with you.
- Vanessa: You saw Peter?
- Joan: Yeah. He was at a bistro downtown at about 1:30 having a drink and watching the game.
- Vanessa: You sure it was him?
- Joan: Yeah. He was wearing that crazy T-shirt he loves so much.
- Sally: Oh oh. Vanessa! Vanessa, wait!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

The Causative - Get/Have - Solving Problems

Causative verbs cause something else to happen. You use a causative verb to show that some person or thing caused something to happen. The subject of the sentence caused the action to happen, but didn't do the action.

You use the causative verbs get and have when you want to make it clear that the subject asked, persuaded or paid someone to do something.

For example:

My boss had me do an emergency project.

In this sentence the boss asks or persuades you to do an emergency project.

The structure of the causative is:

have + object + verb

Milton had his son come down.

or

Subject + get + object + Infinitive

I got Cindy to join us as well.

You use get when you want to show that you need to work a little harder to convince someone to do something.

Have is a little more neutral and implies that you give someone the responsibility to do something.

Examples:

- We have to get someone to play with us.
- I better get the bartender to check the keg.
- Milton had his son come down.
- I got Cindy to join us as well.

Learning Points

Need + Passive Infinitive and Need + Verb + ing

You can use need + passive infinitive and need + verb + ing to talk about things that need to be done.

You use these structures to focus on the thing that needs doing, not the person who is doing it.

Subject + Need + Passive Infinitive

The dishes need to be washed.

The subject of the sentence is the thing that needs doing.

Subject + need + verb + ing

The floor needs sweeping.

When you use need with a gerund (v-ing), it has a passive meaning.

Examples:

- The dishes need to be washed.
- The tables need bussing.
- The floor needs sweeping and my tables need to be served.
