

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

• Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

A way to apologize!

Learning Outcome

Describe ways of solving problems and getting things done in written and spoken situations and in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Do you usually argue with your friends? Why?
- Have you ever felt betrayed by someone? Why? Whose fault was it? What did you do to apologize?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about emotions, personal qualities and behavior.
- I can talk about future action.
- I can talk about what I will be doing or what I will have done.

Let's Explore!

Children sometimes take their parents for granted.*

* "Taking someone for granted" means that you don't properly appreciate all that they do.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Peter, what are you doing here?
Peter: I came over to talk. Are you going to let me in?
Sally: So, Peter. It's late. I go to bed at 11:00. What's up?
Peter: I just came from the bistro. I tried to talk to Vanessa, but she is irrational right now. She kicked me out of her bar. What kind of friend would throw another friend out of her bar?
Sally: Peter. Listen. I'm glad you went over and faced the music, but she has every right to be heated with you.
Peter: C'mon Sally not you too. I told you guys. I gave you plenty of time.
Sally: That's not the point. The point is Vanessa feels like you betrayed her. She feels like you took her and her friendship for granted.
Peter: I don't though.
Sally: Tell her that.
Peter: Really, Sally? You know sometimes I get tired of the two of you leading me around like a little puppy; like some team mascot. By next week, we will not be talking about this and we'll be friends again. I think Vanessa is blowing this way out of proportion.
Sally: Maybe. But I'm telling you right now, she is angry.
Peter: Fine. What are you doing this Friday night because the three of us will be going out.
Sally: Really!
Peter: By this time on Friday, you girls are going to be swept away. You will have been to the stars and back. Friday, Vanessa will have truly understood the phrase paint the town red.
Sally: By this time next week, you are going to be asking everyone you know if you can borrow money.
Peter: True.
Sally: I'll lend you some.
Peter: Thanks!

Let's Practice!

What do Sally and Peter say?

Instructions: Match the halves to complete each sentence. Practice saying the completed sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor. Model a conversation with a partner. Switch roles.

- | | |
|--------------------|--|
| 1. What are you | ☐ doing here? |
| 2. Are you | ☐ will be going out. |
| 3. I go to bed | ☐ at 11:00. |
| 4. We'll be | ☐ friends again. |
| 5. The three of us | ☐ going to let me in? |

Let's Practice!

Sally and Peter talk about their friendship.

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Cross out the incorrect word. Rewrite the corrected sentence below. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

- Please don't blow this out of portrayal!

- Vanessa feels like you betray her.

- She feels like you take her and her friendship for grateful .

- I'm telling you right now, she is anger .

- I'll land you some money.

Extension Activity

I can see your future!

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Imagine you work for a lifestyle magazine as a horoscope writer.
- Write a future prediction for a classmate using future action.
- Write a prediction for this week, this month and this year.
- Use negatives in your predictions.
- Talk about what your partner will be doing or what they will have done.
- Make your predictions fun and always end with a positive prediction.
- Read your predictions to the classmate you are writing about.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I write future predictions.

☐ ☐

I use Future tense, Future Perfect, Future Continuous in my predictions.

☐ ☐

I present predictions clearly and effectively.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- irrational (adjective): not in accordance with reason
e.g. She is irrational right now.
- to kick out (verb): to dismiss or eject forcefully from a place e.g. She kicked me out of her bar.
- heated (adjective): annoyed, angry, upset
e.g. She has every right to be heated with you.
- face the music (expression): to face a difficult situation
e.g. I'm glad you went over and faced the music.
- to take for granted (expression): to assume someone or something will be available without asking e.g. She feels like you took her and her friendship for granted.
- mascot (noun): a person, animal, or object used as a symbol to represent a group e.g. Sometimes I get tired of the two of you leading me around like a little puppy; like some team mascot.
- to blow out of proportion (expression): to make more of a situation than it really is e.g. I think Vanessa is blowing this way out of proportion.
- paint the town red (expression): to go out and celebrate
e.g. Vanessa will have truly understood the phrase paint the town red.

Learning Points

The Future

You can use four different tenses to talk about the future.

When you talk about things that are not decided or when you make a decision at the moment of speaking for the future, you use the modal will.

When you ask about intentions, you use be going to.

When you talk about things that are arranged, on the agenda or booked for the future, you use the Present Continuous tense.

When you talk about timetables or schedules, you use the Simple Present.

Will	By next week, we'll be friends again.
Be going to	Are you going to let me in?
Present Continuous	What are you doing here?
Simple Present	I go to bed at 11:00.

The Future Continuous and Future Perfect Tenses

You use the Future Continuous tense to talk about something happening at a particular time in the future.

You use the Future Perfect tense to talk about one action that will happen before another action in the future.

When you use the Future Continuous, the action will have started in the future, but it will not be finished. It will be ongoing.

For example:

I will be working at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

The person will start work at some point in the future and be working at 4 p.m. It is not clear when the person will stop working.

Learning Points

With the Future Perfect tense we often use a time marker to specify when something will have happened by.

For example:

We can leave until 10 a.m. I will have picked up the car by then.

The movie will start at 9 p.m. You will arrive at the theater at 9:15 p.m. When you arrive, the movie will have started.

The train will leave the station at 9 a.m. You will arrive at the station at 9:15 a.m. When you arrive, the train will have left.

Look at the chart for the structure of the Future Continuous and Future Perfect tenses:

Name	Structure	Example
Future Continuous	be going to/ will (not) + be + v-ing	By next week, we will not be talking about this.
Future Perfect	will + have + past participle	You will have been to the stars and back.

Examples:

- By next week, we will not be talking about this.
- By this time on Friday, you girls are going to be swept away.
- You will have been to the stars and back.
- Friday, Vanessa will have truly understood the phrase paint the town red.
- By this time next week, you are going to be asking everyone you know if you can borrow money.

